Basis of preparation for the Total tax contribution assessment

We made payments to tax authorities in approximately 100 countries in respect of profits, employment, production and sales.

The Total Tax Contribution is a measure of all the taxes that a company pays, whether borne or collected.

Consistent with the Global Reporting Initiative on tax (GRI 207) and the World Economic Forum report Measuring Stakeholder Capitalism of September 2020, reporting of total tax paid, provides meaningful information on the company's contribution to governmental revenues through the different forms of taxation imposed on it.

The Total Tax Contribution includes both taxes borne and taxes collected. The taxes borne are a direct cost for the company. Taxes collected are levied by a company and discharged to the governments, but they are a final cost for others, such as employment tax collected from employees, excise duties collected from customers or withholding tax collected from suppliers.

Scope

As an improvement to 2019-2020 report which has been published by the Company in 2022, 2021 Total Tax Contribution aggregates taxes borne and collected by all our consolidated entities.

Elements of the TTC and associated definitions

PROFIT TAXES

According to internationally recognized tax standards, (e.g., definitions provided by the OECD), profit taxes generally include taxes levied on net profits (i.e., gross income minus allowable tax reliefs). However, some taxes which meet this definition may be classified differently in the Company's Financial Statements following the IFRS accounting standards guidance. In this report, for the sake of consistency, we have applied the same classification as in our Financial Statements. Corporate income taxes are the main type of profit taxes.

PRODUCTION TAXES

Production taxes include taxes on the production of oil, gas and electricity. Consistent with the above developments on profit taxes, we have applied in the present report the same classification of production taxes as under our Financial Statements, following the IFRS standards' guidance (even though some production taxes could have been viewed as profit taxes under other standards).

EMPLOYMENT TAXES

Employment taxes include all taxes and social contributions in relation to the employment of staff. This covers both employment taxes and contributions which are borne by the company and those which are the cost of the employee and collected by TotalEnergies through the payroll.

SALES TAXES

Sales taxes, excise duties and other product taxes are levied on the sale of goods and services. These are very significant for TotalEnergies because we collect taxes from our customers as they purchase energy by way of value added tax and excise duties.

OTHER TAXES

Other taxes include all the other types of taxes, such as taxes on property transactions and ownership.

Process details

Taxes are reported on a cash basis to the extent feasible, i.e., at the time taxes are paid out and tax refunds received. We report refunds as negative amounts in the period we receive them.

Substantial differences between tax paid and tax accrued may arise, as tax paid is generally assessed on prior years' income, while tax accrued is assessed on current year income.

We report internally our total tax contribution on a country basis for all subsidiaries that are part of our consolidated group for financial reporting purposes (i.e., that the Company controls) and our permanent establishments. For purposes of the tax transparency report, we report our total tax contribution on a global and regional basis. For subsidiaries in which we own less than a 100% interest, our total tax contribution represents only our share of taxes paid and collected.

All amounts are rounded to the nearest $1 million.

The data we share comes either from our financial reporting systems (this is the case of employment taxes, corporate income tax paid and excise duties), our extractive industries payments-to-governments report (production taxes) or was collected directly from our affiliates (all the other miscellaneous taxes and levies). Taxes extracted from our financial reporting systems or our payments-to-governments report are subject to our general financial controls and processes.

Total Tax Contribution data is subject to internal review and third-party assurance by our external auditors, KPMG and EY.
